quantity received and the overmakes allowable come up to $13\frac{7}{60}$ reams; i.e. an excess of $45\frac{2}{3}$ % will have to be purchased by Govt, if the Supdt's proposal is accepted.

In cases of purchases of overmakes of such a large amount it has been the practice for the contractors to show some concession by offering the overmakes at a lower rate than that tendered by them. In the present instance the Supdt does not state whether he has asked for such a concession or whether the firm has agreed to part with their papers at a lower rate than that quoted in their tender. May an enquiry be made in the matter or the Supdt's proposal accepted?

The Supdt undertakes to make a proportionate reduction in the quantity for next year; the cost of the excess to be paid for (@ Rs 95) is not also large. Hence the Supdt's proposal may be sanctd.
